Jefferson City Pastor Spends the Day Trying to Influence Legislators Against the Proposed Removal.

BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.

Jefferson City, Mo., Feb. 6.-Both the Senate and House adjourned this afternoon until Monday afternoon, without floating the capital down the Missouri River to St. Louis-all of which was satisfactory to the people of Jefferson City. Fearing that something affecting capital removal might come up for consideraridors of the House ourlag most of the day.

Kronck of St. Louis startled them when he introduced a joint and concurrent resolution providing for the removal of the capital from Jefferson City to St. Louis, but it could only go to first reading.

The Colden resolution, now before the House, was not reached. It provides that the Committee on Joint and Concurrent Resolutions shall prepare an amendment for capital removal. The Reverend Mr. Brooks spent the day about the House trying to influence legis lators against removal. Opponents of the parson have been trying to throw the blame upon him for the present agitation, and in order to show his good faith, he is using his best endeavor to show that he doe wish the people of the city to drive the gamblers out, but does not wish to change the location of the capital. The Jefferson City Tribune this morning in an editorial asked the people to enforce the laws and removal discussion would The Cole County Democrat suggests that if the visitors are fed better there will be less trouble

Lunch will be served at the State University, and the guests will be driven over the town. After Mr. Kronek's capital-removal measure had been read at length he moved that be acted upon forthwith, Mr. Oliver of Cape Girardeau moved that it be referred to the Committee on Constitutional Amendments. Mr. Huck of Ste. Genevieve made the point of order that as the measure was a joint and concurrent resolution, it should take the course of a bill. The Speaker held the point of order well aken, which cut off all further proceedings. Under this rule, after the resolution has been read a second time, it will go to the Committee on Con-titutional Amend and there be treated as a bill,

Following is the resolution: Be it resolved by the House of Representatives the Senate concurring therein, as follows:
At the general election to be held on the Tues day next following the first Monday in November 1904, an amendment to the Constitution of Mis-souri shall be submitted to the qualified voters of the State in the following words:

The seat of government shall be moved from the City of Jefferson and located at St. Louis provided, the city of St. Louis shall grant and devote to the State twenty acres of land for a site, which shall be approved and accepted by ment.

The city of St. Louis may vote an issue of five twenty nontaxable 3-per-cent bonds, not to exceed in amount $1,000,000, and such bonds may be ordered issued by a majority of those voting at a special election called for that purpose by the County Court and conducted generally in the manner provided by law for the issuing of bonds for the resulting of and countreverse Said bonds for the erection of said courthouses, Said of the buildings provided for herein. Gipson of Chariton then made a statoment. He said the Committee on Clerical Hire had found Mr. Young credited with three appointments, among them a Mr. Williams. By request, Young and Williams had appeared before the committee, and Mr. Young, after admitting that he had appointed Williams, sought to revoke it and appoint his daughter. The committee would not agree to this.

"I absolutely deny that statement," shouted Mr. Young.
"Don't get excited, now," said Mr. Gipson. "Keep cool. You are an old man and I will bear with your infirmities."

The chances seemed good for a personal clash, but the Speaker was equal to the occasion and restored quiet. Williams is one of the hardest workers on the clerical force.

GREAT TESTING OF NATION. Beginning by saying it was well worth coming from Washington or even California or even the Philippines to look upon the faces of the founders of the Union League Club of New York, whose arduous work in the stirring days of the Civil War was well remembered, he said: "But length of days s little. To have woven a thread in the fabric of life is some-thing, and that is something that you, old friends, have done We know that our country is great in numbers, in railroads, in all the outward evidences of great material prosperity, but happier are we in the realization that it is great in all that dignified "You and I must realize that it is great to live to see the two sides that fought so long, so fiercely, so hitterly, at length come together and fight as manfully for one flag and one purpose. We ought to realize that it is a great privilege to live to see the re-flex action of our country as whitted abroad flex action of our country exhibited abroad —In Europe and everywhere—lifting up the common people of the earth into the partici-pation of life's truest, purest, greatest gifts

-liberty, freedom and humanity; to live to see our public service grown stronger and purer and better to-day in its integrity and its devotion to the public interests than ever before in our history.
QUESTIONS OF THE DAY. "That old and trite saying, 'Eternal vigil-ance is the price of liberty,' now holds a new and eternal truth. Eternal vigilance is the price of good citizenship. There are great problems to-day calling for the best citizenship and the most devoted patriotism.

"One is the tendency, growing, I fear, to dissensions between the wealthy and the poor, under which wealth tends constantly to endeavor to control matters generally through legislation, thus stirring up a control matter through legislation, thus stirring up a conflict and a war upon the wealthy, based upon envy and jealousy. Every good chi-zen should make his protest and set his face against it, and make it certain that in this country of ours we shall have no

war of classes,
"The second problem is a tendency to check the individual enterprise and develop ment. The chance that every poor boy has by his own efforts, his industry, his en-ergy and his courage to rise as high as a man can rise is at the very foundation of our liberty.

"Labor unions are increasing the prohibition against the better man making the most wages and doing the most work he is capable of, in favor of the poorer workman. This is putting a premium on sloth and stupidity. "I make no war on labor organizations. 1 believe in them. I believe that in the struggle for life now with its growing

Ize. I believe he is entitled to do so, and I am glad to see him organize to get his own.
"But let us set our faces against the tendency to say to any American boy, 'You shall not do the best you can.' NEGRO SUFFRAGE A FAILURE. NEGRO SUFFRAGE A FAILURE.

"A third problem is one with which this club might well be concerned. You have heard the speakers tell to-night of the organization of negro regiments by this club and of their marching down Broadway be of this club the nation, by the Thirteenth Amendment, provided that slavery should not exist in this country. By the Four-teenth Amendment the Constitution recognized the black man and provided that all men born or naturalized in this country should be citizens. By the Fifteenth Amendment it declared that no man should be barred from voting if he was a citizen and eligible.

"Those three amendments Those three amendments emboded the scheme adopted by thoughtful men for uplifting those long held in slavery. Give him citizenship and suffrage and equal rights, and he will rise, they thought. "I fear we are compelled to face the con clusion that the experiment has failed. The suffrage has been taken away from the black man in most of the States in which he composes the larger part of the popula-tion. The black man in the South generally no longer has practically the right of suf-

At such official receptions the black men holding such positions have al-ways attended, including Cleveland's and McKinley's. Yet when this happened at McKinley's. Yet when this happened at President Roosevelt's similar reception, it was the signal for an outburst that the white men of the South had been insuited by the appearance of a black officeholder at an official reception.

"I do not want to argue this question. I only want to show you that the blacks are meeting with a change of feeling in the South. Have they not a right to aspire to an office, formerly unquestioned, but now questioned?

questioned?
"It is probably but a matter of time when the overwhelming dominant white opinion will succeed in excluding the black man from offices in all the Southern States.
"So the country has to face the failure of the plan formulated at the close of the war to elevate the black man by conferring the suffrage upon him.

man by conferring the suffrage upon him.

"We can never throw up the responsibility for these people held in slavery for so many generations. The new question. What can be done for them, now that the first plan has failed! is one that challenges the best thought and the best patriotism of our country."

UTTERANCES INDORSED,
For an instant after the Secretary of War had finished, a hush fell upon the audience. Then the applause was fairly deafening. It continued for at least two minutes, swelling all the time, and finally broke out into vociferous cheers.

In the dining-room, where supper was served at the conclusion of the speech of former Attorney General Griggs, who followed the Secretary of War, the one topic of conversation was the deliverance of Secretary Root. He was looked upon as the spokesman of the administration and the defender of President Roosevelt in the clamer growing out of the Crum appointment. UTTERANCES INDORSED. ment.
His declaration that negro suffrage had proved a failure was not freely admitted among the war horses of the Republican party who were present, but generally the admission was commented upon as candid and truthful.

Building Space Information is Desired by Japanese Commission.

Doctor F. C. Rieloff, Imperial German Consul at St. Louis, has, at the request of the Exposition management, cabled to Doctor Theodore Lewald, Imperial Commissioner General now in Berlin, to submit by telegraph, immediately, a general statement of the amount of ground space needed for the German National pavilion and surrounding gardens, on the German Hill at the World's Fair.

This action on the part of the Exposition management was occasioned by the request of Jushire Kuichi, the Commissioner General from Japan, now in St. Louis, for some idea of the amount of ground space which could be allotted to his Government for a National pavilion on the same hill, the Exposition management having yielded to his desire for a location in that quarter. It is expected that the reply from Doctor Lewald will make clear the probability of Japan being able to occupy space on the socalled German Hill. The Japanese Commission does not desire to erect the pavilion of that Government on the hill unless a considerable area of ground will exist between the two buildings. If the German huilding and grounds take up so much space that Japan will be crowded, her commission will select another site.

The presence in the city of Architect Yabashi makes it imperative that the Japanese Commission knows exactly what space to rely upon in designing the intended Japanese national pavillon. When the question of location is decided the preliminary work of the commission will have been completed here, and the members of the commission will return to Tokio to make their formal report.
